TIMELY TOPICS
WHO IS TO BLAME?

While attempting to light a fire at her home in Quebec, the kerosene she was using exploded. It was a woman who did this, and she had six young children in the house. The whole house soon became a mass of flames, and the mother soon became frantic trying to save her children. Three of the children succeeded in making their escape, but the other three, in spite of the mother's efforts, were burned to a crisp. The mother was also badly burned. It all comes of throwing caution to the winds and doing just that which is condemned by the majority of people. We all know how anxious one is in the morning to get the fire going quick and strong, but we also know that he or she is, in plain words, simply a fool and is playing with chances to use kerosene in lighting a fire. A little paper, a little kindling, and a little patience will usually work the trick with despatch, even in the coldest weather, and the children upstairs are safe.

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE
On certain occasions the King, advised by the heads of the empire, bestows certain honors upon public servants and men who have distinguished themselves in the service of the nation or mankind. It may be looked upon by some as only an incident that Robert Laird Borden, the Premier of Canada, should be chosen as the chief person whom the King deigns to honor. But we will not grudge him his honor. The Right Honorable gentleman has done good service for his country, and his loyalty to the empire has never been in question. His political opponents may sometimes be caustic in regard to his politics, but nevertheless as a man, as a business man, as a man who has the welfare of Canada—and the nation of which Canada is an important part—at heart he commands the great honor conferred upon him.

MOVING PICTURES AND MORALES
The moving picture invention is one of the greatest discoveries mankind has known, but like most discoveries it is easy to abuse. Indeed it lends itself readily to abuse, and then it becomes an absolute curse. Men for paltry gain are ever ready to take advantage of their weaker fellows, and principles or morality are easily lost sight of. Consequently the moving picture discovery is subject to all kinds of abuse, and children especially are the victims. The operators of many of these exhibitions have been men of bad characters, and many young people have been led astray through patronizing the shows. We are glad to note that the Alberta legislature is contemplating legislation for the control of these shows, and to assist in this endeavor have been made in all parts of the province. This is as it should be, and we congratulate the representatives of the people who go to Edmonton to do business for the people, upon their desire to enforce, as far as possible, law and good government.

THE MEN UNDER THE MORTGAGE
The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal has recently invited correspondence to try and find out to what extent the farmers of the country are feeling the pressure of mortgages and the high rate of interest demanded by the same. The letters received revealed a lamentable state of affairs. From all parts of the country, and especially from the west, the suffering felt and even heroism manifested as the result of lack of capital, and where capital has been found, the high rate of interest, the story is pathetic indeed. Railways we know are a great need, and the governments appear ever ready to assist the huge railroad corporations, and in this matter the people's money is used. Why, then, should not the government be also to assist bonhôpital settlers and honorable farmers by loaning them money for long periods at low rates of interest? We know that some people would object to this, and plead in return that other interests have an equal claim upon such aid; but surely the farmer, whose outlay is so great, and who sometimes suffers great drawbacks, should receive such assistance as this country is well able to give in the way of loans on easy terms at low interest. Many homesteads and farms have to be sold as a last resort to pay for implements, land and other things at great sacrifice, because the farmer is at the mercy of some relentless firm who cannot or will not wait. This is a national question, affecting almost the whole of the country, and politicians desiring to help a great number of deserving men would do well to seriously consider this question.

THE A. & G. W.

While Premier Sifton was down east he was supposed to have visited Ottawa in the interests of the province and notably in connection with the litigation that is proceeding between the provincial government and the late A. & G. W. Railway Co. Some think that the province will come through all right, others think different. Some would like to bring to bear party bias, and are quite ready to blame the Conservative government if the decision is not in favor of Premier Sifton's view. What every party has to do with law we cannot say, but we know that sometimes law steps on the side of party, regardless of the right or wrong of the case. It is said that Sifton felt sure that Laurier would come into office again, and would see that the decision of the Alberta premier was followed up by the higher powers, but now Borden is at the head of affairs things look different, the decision may go against the government. Well, we shall see what we shall see, but there certainly is a great muddle.

Make Sure of the Seed

As things look now there is likely to be a scarcity of good seed grain next spring. In the west this applies more particularly. While this province has been blessed with a big crop, the bad fall and the unfavorable conditions for harvesting and threshing the crop have cut into the supply that will be suitable for seed. The prairie farmer who was able to harvest his crop in the usual way should hang on to the grain for seed purposes. There is bound to be a big demand next spring for good seed. Already there have been inquiries in the east from the west for good seed grain, and it looks as if the whole of Canada will need to be drawn upon in order to get sufficient for next spring's seeding in the west, especially of oats and barley. We do not wish to exaggerate the situation, but merely to impress the western farmer with the necessity of looking after his seed supply early. This is to be done, too. The western farmer wants a better quality of seed than would satisfy him a few years ago. He has learned that the success of his crop depends largely upon the quality of the seed sown, its vitality, its freedom from weed seeds and its power to reproduce itself in a strong, vigorous way. Eastern farmers who may be looking forward to the west as a market for seed grain should bear this fact in mind. The westerner is a good buyer, but wants the best, if it is to be had, whether it be in seed or anything else. As to probable prices, it may be said that one firm in the west that has secured control of practically all the Marquis wheat grown in the past season, has already sold its entire quantity of seed at three dollars a bushel. It is quite probable the United Farmers of Alberta when they meet in convention next week will discuss the matter of getting seed grain for next season at reasonable prices.

A CANADIAN HELEN KELLER.

Jean Velot is the Marvel of Halifax Institute.

In the heart of the Acadian Valley where there are no hospitals and Bishop pippins of high quality, where the skydark ains, its sweetest, and the very air is full of the sounds of the variety of scenes and charm of living where lads and lasses peep their nests, there is a girl named Jean, some, there, Mary Jane Velot, the daughter of a poor girl who died.

She is popularly known as Jean, and for the last three years she has been the star of the school and the attraction for the deaf and dumb at Halifax. She is a favorite not because of her beauty, but because of her buoyant, playful temperament, the unexpected ways in which her very apparent determination to be disseminated from the limitations within which her body is confined.

"May I talk with you?" is the first salutation and indifference, the object of her many a visit to the school and to her clutches. The objects of her inquiry range anywhere from the health of the school to the condition of the waters under the earth. Aristotle's desire to know and to have his desire satisfied is acute, intense.

She is the last to regret the death of King Edward, the comet's tail, the terrible cyclone of 1913, the terror, and her interest in current events is greater than that of most even the most learned. She is fond of chit-chat with children everywhere, she is very fond of play and can make her way about the school with the greatest facility.

Born in Berwick, King's County, Nova Scotia, ten years ago, much detail is known of her life. She has come into the world years has she known. Very early she lost her mother, and her father, a fisherman, has been responsible for her other troubles. When she was about two years old, her father died, and she was left to her mother, who was deprived of her equipment which made possible the life of the child in the face of the storm and stress. What little vocabulary she had, she learned from her mother, and the only intelligible sound she knew when she came under the care of the school was "Granny," for her grandmother, Mrs. G. W. Rarus, took the mother's place.

In this helpless state and with health that prompted little she could do, she learned to crawl, to walk, to speak, and to read and day. Nothing is more wonderful than the progress she has made in so short a time. She is a healthy child now, and she is a real beauty.

She is certainly a wonderful medicine and I recommend them to all my friends. She has children of her own, and my mail at 25 cents a box from The Shiloh's Medicine Co., Brooklyn, N.Y.

The Most Human Picture Ever Painted.

"THE DOCTOR"

The original of this painting, by Luke Fildes, hangs in the Tate Gallery, in London, painted there by popular subscription of the British people. Never has brush depicted more powerfully the sensations of humanity, of tenderness, of faith, of fatherly helplessness or childlike helplessness. It is really as well as figuratively the most human of the world's great works of art.

A photogravure reproduction of this great painting—22 x 28 inches in size—the largest photogravure ever printed.

Time waits on no man.

Mies Wiggy—I don't blame it. It would lose lots of sleep if it waits on some people I know.
